share of the $422,150 project. The U.S. Bureau of Public Roads has earmarked $160,025 to fix the damage caused in September, 1965, by Hurricane Betsy. Russell J. Elliott, Beat 5 supervisor and board president, and Joseph Benvenutti, board attorney, were directed to notify the State Highway Department the cash is available so it can proceed with advertising for bids on construction.

Supervisors turned to the banks after two weeks' study of how to replenish the $95,000 shortage in the road protection fund caused by loans from it to other funds.

Supervisors went over the claim dockets with a fine tooth comb Monday afternoon since this was the new board's first crack at handling county finances and some members woron't too sure how much thoir prodocessors had left in the kitty. The retiring board had approved December bills Doc. 27, just before going out of office.

A check with the depositories showed $12,640 in the Beat 1 road and bridge fund, $4,534 in Beat 3's account $20,596.14 in Beat 4's and $3,266 in the seawall. There were two checks totaling $17,366 due to be deposited to the seawall fund which enabled it to meet its $16.560.22 worth of bills. Beats 2 and 5 resources were not avostioned.

Beat 1 Supervisor C. A. Russ, III, held over six bills totaling $629.65, including $134.77 for phono service, from its $2,378.50 docket. Joseph Cuavao of Beat 3 scratched $131,95 in three bills from his $2,620 docket. J.C. Mauffray of Boat 4 approved his dockot at $2,691.89 and Elliott approved $13,269 in Beat 5. He was somewhat reluctant about $1,408 worth of shells, contracted for in December. from the Beat 5 road bond fund, Dolph Kollar of Beat 2, long hold-over member, okayed his $4,000 account.

Federal Aviation Administration approval of the Hancock County airport in the form of a $476,650 grant offer of matching funds was received and accepted by the board of supervisors Monday.

This opens the way for the county to sign a contract with Yates and Patterson, Inc., Jackson, low bidder at $746,513.27 on the first phase of construction. Action must be taken before Feb. 11, expiration date of the bid, Michael Haas, attorney for the port and harbor commission which is handling the project, warned supervisors.

The FAA has disapproved a change in the unit price on paying because the runway surface is being reduced from five to three inches in depth to bring the job within funds available, Haas reported. He said Michael Baker, jr., Inc., consulting engineers, informed him that Yates & Patterson would not let this $1,600 item stand in the way and had agreed to pro-

On the motion of Supervisor C.A. Russ, III, seconded by Josoph Cuevas, the board approved the part commission's recommendation to renew its contract with Baker as engineer for completion of work under contract.

Supervisors set in with the port commission during its mogotistions with Baker and were assured the pact is the same as they had understood. Only chango is inclusion of a final comprehensive report on the port and airport if that is desired later on. Hans said this could servo as an indus-

The board sent back to the port commission its recolution SIIII W9 amd to point commission its recolution recommending appointment of Charles H. Hill, Poarlington land developer, as port director, instructing it to fix his salary first. Donald Landry, port president, said his group at its mooting last Thursday had wanted supervisors to approve the selection before it talked pay. The port budget allocates $15,000 for a port director and $7,500 for expenses. The commission doesn't expect to go over $12,000 to $13,000 for the job, Landry indicated, and is to take the matter up at its session tonight. Hill was solected from among 15 applicants for the post. He was recommended on tho motion of Gus Elmer, Beat 4 commissioner, seconded by John A. Scafide of Bay St. Louis. Only Oliver Friercon of Boat 2 abstained from voting. Two other resolutions, passion of the legislature was concluded with the passage by the Senate of a billi providing for the inauguration of the governor on the second week of the senation. This is an effort to tasten the "getting down to work?" by your legislature. The address to a joint session of the House and Senate by Governor Williams was to have been on Wednesday of list week, but was postponed until Wednesday of this week. Legislatore have withheld introduction of many major imeasures, pending the program. Although thoro is a caparation of the operative and logisistivo branches of our state covernment, it is a matter of courtesy to allow the governor to ozorose his program before toldes any direct action on bills which might be covored by his escoch. This is further ovidenced by the fact that the House and Senate education committees have held on proliminary meetings awaiting tha movernor's public announcement concorning his new education program. Those of us on the Finance Committees in the Senato and the House are biding our time pending his program with regard to financing such oducation programs as well as highway programs and other matters of state finances and tan changes.

The Senate did, however, consider and pass a bill last woek to provide for an additional Circuit Court judge for the 2nd District which is composed of Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties. The bill also makes some changes in the dates on which court will be hald. This bill has been sent to the House for action. Two of the counties involved are in this Sonatorial District, and I joined in the introduction of the bill.

The Senate approved a House bill which prohibits the headlighting of rabbits. The bill was prompted by the loss of livestock and deer to night hunters using headlights to shine the oyos of rabbits. Enforcement of same laws relating to the headlighting of deer has also boon difficult under the existing law.

Bills already introduced and which have been assigned to committees for study and recommendation are: to esparate the office of sheriff and tax collectors and allow the sheriff to succeed himself, to provide her obsence voting for certain classes of persons; to lower the voting and from 21 to 18; to regulare compulsory school of tondance by children of certain Ogos; to change the sales tax laws; to allow only landowners The are qualified electors to veto in county and municipal TID year state residency to be a qualified elector. The change would allow a porcon having lived in this state for one year to rogister to vote and bagin participating in our political affairs. I intend to support this bill whon it reaches the floor for action. It is my opinion that the process law provents many wellqualified citizens from omerciaend coaliving enitor cut gui after they have become fullfledged participants in all other phases of community life. Many of our own Mississippinns who have returned to the state after having worked elsewhere are unnecessarily barrod from voting for too long a ported of time. Only personnel in the armed forces, transportation workers and seamen are now permitted to vote by absentee ballot. I introduced a bill last week which would allow college students, teachers, traveling salesmen, offshore oil rig workers, and governmental employes to make use of the absence ballot when their jobs make thoir absence from their homes on election day necessary. Unpleasant but it needs saying

We have put off making one comment about Bay . Louis for several years. We have hinted at it, ith pictures of run down buildings. We encourage x-up, paint-up campaigns but we never have come ght out and said it.

Basically, our city has everything and more orking for it. Good private schools to keep the blic schools on their toes. Varied recreation is our doorstep - A yacht club, a golf course, a ttle theatre, all at reasonable cost, but something

Bay St. Louis is also a dirty town, physically rty. It shows up in unkept yards, houses on each Boulevard that haven't been painted in eons, re gutted buildings, dangerous, ugly sloppy. The ty playground across from Gulf View Haven, weed own with its torn pier, contrasting with the effort ulf View Haven has made in improving its ap-≥arance from the beach; and on and on. To some egree this negative, lazy approach may have conibuted to the failure of the street bond issue. ut you can't lay this to torn up streets, because efore they occurred the other things were here. We believe the fundamental fault lies in pride. 's not money, that's an excuse for almost all of s, and an easy one. We have never met E. C. trong but for some years we have mentally compliented him when we passed his house on Washingon Street. We know of no better lawn, though small, r a better tended yard. We bet Mr. Strong has ride, in his yard and in himself.

We suggest the city's advisory committee, preently occupied with street problems, should next indertake the even bigger problem of somehow imroving the city's overall appearance and attitude. The Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees, church groups, boy scouts, girl scouts, home demonstraion clubs, and particularly the garden clubs, can start on the problem now. There will never be a better time.

The Academy panel, in each its reports, then cited two sources -- and two only -- to support its conclusion. One is known professionally as Goodman-Gilman, "The Pharmacological Basis of Therapeutics," published in 1965. The other is a summary by Dr. J. Now, one interesting thing is that neither of these sources supports the FDA's flat assertion that the bioflavonoids are

On the othor hand, a number of highly reputable physicians are convinced that the compounds are indeed effective. In one experiment, hesperidintablets apparently worked with remarkable success in preventing "hot flashes" in women undergoing menopause. The flavonoids appear to help some women in controlling menstrual hemorrhage. The compounds are cited in one article for successful treatment of a skin disease, in another for treatment of serious bruises. Unless these doctors are dead wrong, the compounds do have therapeutic value for some patients at some time.

If the FDA has its way, doctors and patients alike would be forbidden to use them. The conclusion of the Academy's exparts would be elevated to the status of law. It is not the constriction of capillaries that matters in all of this. It is the construction of freedom

The proponents of the civil rights bill now before the Senate have laid great stress on the fact that this legislation is urgently "needed." This "need" they say, arises from the fact that racial violence is allegedly widespread in the South and local law enforcement officers are indifferent to the problem.

In an effort to make these charges stick and show a need for this legislation at the present time, the proponents of the bill have been forced to resurrect old cases as far back as 1963. Even these stale examples, however, failed to demonstrate the indifference of local law enforcement officers. Of the eight crimes committed in the period 1963 through 1965, which have been cited to support the need for this legislation today, six were followed by the arrest and prosecution of the suspected offenders. That is, 75 per cent solved and brought to trial. Only 25 percent remained unsolved. This is just the reverse of the national average for the solution of serious crimes. In 1966, fewer than 25 per cent of the serious crimes reported to the police were cleared by even an arrest much less a prosecution, while more than 75 per cent went completely unsolved and unprosecuted.

When we come down to modern times in search of some reason to justify this extreme bill, we find two examples given. One is the bombing death in February 1967 of Wharlist Jackson at Natchez. The other is the bombing on March 12. 1967, of three headstart buildings, one in Mississippi and two in Alabama.

The first thing to be noted about these two incidents is that they are both already covered by existing federal law. The failure to solve these crimes is not due to any lack of authority on the part of the federal government. Furthermore, if any unfavorable conclusions regarding the diligence and determination of local law enforcement officers can be drawn from the fact that those crimes have gone unpunished. they are equally applicable to federal officials.

The facts are both local and federal officials have made a diligant effort to solve all bombings in Mississippi and there is no justification for pointing to any of the crimes in Mississippi as reason for need of additional legislation.

Comparing Korea with Vietnam

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - The most crushing blow to U.S. military prestige in recent history occurred during the Korean War when the North Koreans, before Red China entered the fighting, almost succeeded in pushing General MacArthur's army into the

Only five years earlier the United States had come out of World War II with the most powerful Army, Navy and Air Force the world had ever seen; yet North Korea, with a population of only 12 million, came close to defeating us militarily, forcing us into a small boachhead in Southeast Korea within six short weeks. We held there, then were able to recapture lost ground and drive on into North Korea, until we reached the Yalu River and the Red Chinese entered the war, again forcing a U.S. retreat into South Korea.

U.S. military prestige suffered tremendous damage throughout the world as a result.

And now the North Vietnamese nation of 16 million, aided by a few hundred thousand Viet Cong in South Vietnam, not only has effectively defied U.S. military might during three years of bitter fighting, but has been able to filter through a U.S. force of 500,000 men, invade the U.S. embassy in Saigon, and even attack the headquarters of General Westmoreland, supposedly Gilbraltars of U.S. strength in South Vietnam.

No matter how the Pentagon and General Westmoreland explain the events of the past few days -- and the current buildup for a North Vistnamese siege of the U.S. outpost at Khe Sanh--it is clear the U.S. military has been caught napping again, that U.S. prostige has suffered another tremendous setback, and--most important -- that despite all our military force and all the Pentagon strategists we still don't know what to do or how to do it in

In this case, unlike Pearl Harbor, we had warning that the attacks were coming. We even knew the exact day. But we were still caught off guard

And statements by U.S. officials -- in Washington and Sargon alike--that the attacks were defeats for the Viet (ong hard) will compensate for the clear fact that the Viet Cong again have made us the laughing stock of the world.

Pueblo gool

The success of North Korea in capturing the U.S. Na.,'s spy ship, the Pueblo, must also be classed as another colossal goof by the U.S. military.

Whether the Pueblo was within North Korea's 12-mile limit. as they claim, or just outside the limit, as the U.S. claims, actually is of little importance compared to the fact that so valuable and so vulnerable a ship was sent so close to the enemy shore without protection, and that when North Korean patrol boats appeared nothing was done to prevent her capture. U.S. jets could have been on the scene within 15 minutes, yet not one was sent.

When the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and caught both the Army and Navy completely asleep, General Short and Admiral Kimmel, as the officers in charge, were immediately relieved of their commands and disciplined--even though some of the fault could be traced back to Washington.

But neither in Vietnam nor the Pueblo incident is there any evidence that the military leaders in charge are to be held to account. During World War II, Gan. George Marshall as Chief of Staff did not hesitate to act under like circumstances. If a general made mistakes and proved incompetent, he was recalled and sometimes fired. A total of 19 generals received such treatment. Later, Con. MacArthur, Supreme Allied Con:mander in the Far East, was relieved of his command by President Harry Truman during the Korean War.

Thus thoro is ample precedent for drastic action against military commanders who fail to meet their responsibilities. Prosident Johnson would find a lot of support if he recalled these precedents and moved promptly and vigorously to get rid of the admirals and generals who are making serious mistakes at the cost of American lives and American prostige.

We clearly need changes to prevent more such blunders and waste--because the future safety and security of the United States are at stake.

Thruway battle

A big battle is going on backstage in the Department of Transportation regarding highways.

The new Secretary for Transportation, Alan Boyd, is bucking the highway lobby. Representatives of the gaseline, tire, automobile and coment companies want big thruways built in cities rogardloos of who is dislocated or routed out of his home. Boyd claims that highways should be located so as to help

The highway lebby was able to put across a tremendous motwork of thruways costing billions of collars even while the motion's schools were neglected. Chances are the highway lobby will win out again.

The products date from 1936, when a substance identified as citrin was isolated from paels of citrus fruits. In the form of hesperidin, or rutin, or ascorbic acid, the vitaminlike substance occurs widely in fruits, tree barks, vegetables, tobacco, and white and yellow flowers.

No one ever has suggested that the bioflavonoids are dangerous or unsafe. That is not the question at issue. The question is, Are they effective in

The Beat 5 road and bridge fund loaned $1,500 to the health and sick fund, to be repaid as funds are available, enabling its $1,732.75 claims to be paid. Beat 2 loaned $1,000 to clear a health and sick overdraft last month.

Study began of the 33 persons getting $30 a month for care or aid from the pauper fund. Examination showed Beat 1 has three recipients, Beat 2 has four, 3 has six, 4 has eight and 5 has 11. The docket totaled $4,494.07 and the book balance Jan. 31 was $4,500.

Salary of Lucien Kidd as county civil defense director was fixed at $600, the maximum on which 50 per cent matching funds from the state and federal authorities is allowed. Expenses were discarded since those are not reimbursed. The county's share will come from the general fund. Supervisors declined to set up a petty cash account for civil defense and directed all purchase orders go through the chancery clerk's office. A registered letter was ordered sent to H.G. Dean, former Beat 1 supervisor with a copy to Pete Walker, MTO security patrol supervisor, requesting that the patrol's truck be turned over to Russ as current Beat 1 supervisor, Walker also is to be asked to account for all equipment. Russ moved to send the letters, seconded by Cuevas, after Elliott called the difficulties to the board's attention.

Waveland looks for federal sewer help Town Attorney Lucion M. Con.

Prospects look good for the federal-aid Waveland hopes to get for its sewerage collection and treatment system although it may come from different sources than enticipated, Mayor Cartiold Ladner and Alderman

John Longo, ir., reported to Town Council Tuesday night. They said they learned at a leached which comproduces income cificinto in Atlanta, Ga., that there should be no difficulty in cocuries the $177,000 or more for the breatment plant through the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Wolfaro program botto ibai oro enoitales omos indicates -fractical out anyonet bia cett at mont of Housing and Urban Dovolopmont. Longo noted that one program provides 80 per cont matching funds pure and simply; the other is for 80 per cont but bna acol gairocaigae aebuloai assorted costs.

Federal officials quadioned the Wavoland program on the basis of the 1930 consus showing a 1.152 population. On an avorago of four persons to a family this would indicate about 800 sewer connections. To be occnomically feasible, the system would mad 1,450 connoctions. Longo said a check ho and Town Clerk C.O. Dufour made on their return found 1,498 rosidonces which could be expected to tio in. This would give the town 48 more than required.

Need to clear unsigntly lots was reviewed informally and a 180-yours event, council voted a $150 contribution for it. R alco authorized two $10 advortimmonts in Piccola's School of Dance recital program; tho come advertising as last year in the Bay St. Louis Little Thoator program, and reduced its contribution to St. Joseph Carnival Ball's program, which thin year benefits Our Lady of the Gulf Parish School, to $10. In the latter case, it was noted Waveland now has its own Cornival event. A $50 contract with Gulfport radio station

Eight juveniles have been arrested over the last few days as City Police Chief Lathon Garriga and Sheriff Fred Curet announced their intention to enforce the local teen-age curfew.

Michael D. Haas, youth court referee, said yesterday that any boy or girl under 18 years of age found on the streets after 10 p.m. weekdays and after midnight Saturdays is subject to arrest. Parents will be notified but young offenders may be held in jail overnight.

Investigation is also continuing into the theft of several automobile radiators. So far eight juveniles have been arrested in connection with the case. Garriga said two are 14 years old, two 15, two 16, one 17 and one only 13.

In an attempt to halt any influx of undesirables Curet said no new beer sales permits will be issued without prior knowledge and consent of Bay St. Louis or Waveland town offi-

Your committee further determined that the petition filed on December 1, 1957, was sufficient and the election should have been ordered by the Commission Council.

Letter Follows

Mr. E. J. Marengo, Chairman Council Manager Plan of Governmen: Commission P. O. Box 1252 Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 3/520

Dear Mr. Marengo:

In response to your letter requesting the number of qualified electors registered in the City of Bay St. Louis, please be advised that we have no accurate record of the number of registered voters on the Municipal Poll Rocks on the Municipal Poll Books.

In the event you would like to examine the poll books to determine the number of qualified voters they will be made available to you and/or your committee during regular office hours.

Yours very truly,

City of Bay St. Louis

We found Mr. Glover was twikel in the above statements, admitting his records to be poor and inaccurate.

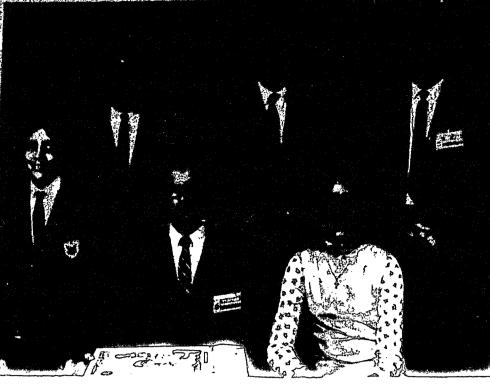

The City has failed to purge the registration books and the burden has fallen on your committee to make a most exhaustive check of the registration records and Poll books. We used volunteer workers, as we do not have paid workers as used by the City.

We find the records reveal many dead people, numerous duplicate registrations, in Addition to people who have moved and the been voling elsewhere over a period of as long as 15 years.

We wan to repeat the results of car finding to city officials and requent a review in this matter and wrose them to call the election so that the coople of Bay St. Louis may have the oppositionly Of decident thin important tesues

WE WILL WEEP YOU ADVISED!

We want to begin by complimenting the many, many boys and girls who have been collecting for what is more or less officially called the Howard Dawsey fund. It would be impossible to name all who have helped. His companions on the camping trip at the time he was seriously injured when a rifle accidentally discharged started the drive, and quite a lot was donated when Bay High cheerleaders made their rounds during the recent basketball tournament. Others continued soliciting in classrooms, on school buses and around town and St. Stanislaus students have pitched in to help. Howard had brain surgery at Gulfport Memorial and is reported to be slowly improving, but it will be a long and expensive process and an almost impossible financial burden on his widowed mother. In the appointment of Congressman Bill Colmer Wississippi Vice President of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, its President Henry H. Buckman pays fitting tribute to his long and distinguished career as a public servant.

In doing so, he also emphasizes the importance of this geographic area to harbor and river development. stressing the Ports of Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula. the Harrison County Seaway and the newly developing Hancock County Port at Bay St. Louis.

With the Pat Harrison Waterway District under development, along with the lower portion of the Pearl River District activities, the Mississippi Gulf Coast counties are destined to achieve increasing attention nationally and internationally.

With Congressman Colmer, who was born in Gulfport, and Congressman Hale Boggs, born at Long Beach.

the Louisiana Vice President of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, we should be well represented on the national waterfront.

In making the appointment of Congressman Colmer to the Congress, President Buckman says, "His long and valuable experience in the field of water resource development will be most valuable to our organization in working toward the full development and preservation of the water resources of this nation."

The value of Mississippi waters is no new discovery. The Portuguese and Spanish skirted these shores more than 100 years ago, and the French began colonizing it in 1699. As Mississippi observes its Sesquicentennial during 1968, we foresee that the preservation and development of its water resources will increase in importance, as they demand the support of all of us if we are to realize more fully upon our most priceless natural asset - our waterways, rivers, bays and harbors.

Perch and green trout seem be at their best at this time. Fishing over the wook end was on the bad side. A few fresh water fish were caught. Most of them were hooked by still fishing, using worms and frozen shrimp for bait.

Water in most stroams is still on the bad side but is slowly clearing.

A lot of fishermen claim the bad water in Jordan River and Bayou La Croix is due to dredge work on I-10 just north of Bay St. Louis. Drodging here is scheduled to continue for come many snapping turtles which can be caught by still fishing. Those turtles often weigh over 40 pounds. The meat is prized as a dollicious food when made in a stow or cooked with spaghotti. Fishormon catching turties are advised to keep them at arms longth for they snap or bite anything that comes their way.

Carlos Ladner and Morris Daniels caught a few small black bass Sunday while fly fishing.

Hard crabs are beginning to make their appearance. Some were caught on fishing lines recently. Warming weather should bring them nearer shore.
